

Sixth Annual Religion, Literature and the Arts Conference

09-11 April 2010

Registration Information

All participants will be asked to pay a registration fee ($15 for students, $50 for faculty), which will cover conference expenses, coffee for Saturday and Sunday mornings, and snacks at the informal reception following Dr. Jasper's keynote address.

For those who are interested, the Conference will also be facilitating lunch for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, as well as a catered meal for Saturday evening. In addition to allowing the conference to move with greater efficiency (as the conference is a good hike from food sources), the time for meals will be spent discussing topics related to interdisciplinary pedagogy as well as the recent turn to apocalyptic evil in modern cinema. The cost for the four meals will be $50 for students and $65 for faculty.

Payment must take the form of a check made out to The University of Iowa, and the memo line MUST state Religion, Literature and the Arts conference.
