Discussion:

- Where do you see additional opportunities to intervene within your area or other areas?
  - Generally, Early Intervention programs use “triggers” to initiate contact with a student (e.g., course grades, unpaid bills, etc.) but they may also use a variety of already established “touch points” to check to see how students are doing and to identify students who may be at risk – are there any touch points you know of that have potential for a more deliberate check-in with our students?
  - What are we doing that we should continue doing with regard to early intervention?
  - Are there policies/programs/practices that create barriers to persistence/retention?
3. Updates:
    - Revised Mission/Vision
  4. Next SST Meeting: April Meetings – Watch your email – there will be two meeting options (same content).
